KLAN AND LEAGUE ISSUES UNSETTLED

OPPOSITE PLANKS MAY BE SUBMITTED.

DRY LAW WORRIES TOO

Bryan Faction Demands Specific To Enforcement of 18th Amendment—Up To Convention Tomorrow

New York, June 26.—After an all-night session, a skeleton of the 1924 Democratic platform was completed today by a special sub-committee on resolutions from the national convention.

The conferees, however, postponed a final decision on the party's attitude towards the Ku Klux Klan and the League of Nations—the two major planks which aroused bitter arguments.

In both instances, the sub-committee recommended twin planks setting forth the views of the opposing factions.

It was the hope of the platform leaders to complete the document so as to have it in shape to be submitted as soon as possible. However, the entire platform undoubtedly will not be submitted to the convention itself until tomorrow.

The tentative document was written by Homer L. Cummings of Connecticut, chairman, and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, secretary.

The discussions throughout the night were peaceful even though the opposing factions never conceded a point. The conferees spent several hours wrangling over the League issue before a "gentlemen's agreement" was reached to draft two planks, one setting forth a direct pledge to carry the United States into the League, and the other pushed the League issue into the background.

The conferees then rushed through their program of economic issues. The next obstacle reached was the prohibition plank. One faction led by William Jennings Bryan demanded a specific reference to the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment with condemnation of the attitude of the Coolidge administration on the prohibition act. This met with stubborn opposition.

The conferees adjourned, turning their recommendations over to Cummings and Pittman for drafting the tentative platform, while the League and Klan planks still remain uncertain. The remainder of the platform was assured of adoption.

Communicable Disease Charts Distributed

County Health Department Giving Charts To School Teachers—Every Rural School To Have One

Communicable disease charts, prepared by the State Board of Health are being distributed by the Nodaway County Health Department to the teachers at the State Teachers College that will be in charge of schools in the county. It is the plan to have these charts in all the schools by the time school opens in the fall.

Miss Margaret Davison, public health nurse, is also giving out these charts to all the members of her classes in the county taking the courses of instruction in "Mothers Conferences in Home Nursing and Care of the Sick."

These charts are a convenient form to have in the school and home, giving at a single glance symptoms of nine communicable diseases and three skin diseases; whether suspect should be quarantined, length of confinement; and whether those exposed should be confined or quarantined. About two hundred of these charts will be given out by the Health Department.

Visitors At Orcutt Home.

Miss Alice Orcutt, who teaches in the Junior High School at Oakland, Calif., and her sister, Mrs. Arthur Fisher of Caney, Kan., arrived in Maryville last night to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Orcutt. Mrs. Fisher will visit here for two weeks and her sister will spend the summer vacation in Maryville.

Mrs. Ray Osborn left this morning for her home at Enid, Okla., after a week's visit with her mother, Mrs. Mary Wyatt Moore.

Tubercular Assn. to Be Formed Monday

Meeting Postponed Until All Teachers Can Meet At the State Teachers College.

Organization of the Nodaway County Tubercular Association has been postponed until 1:20 o'clock Monday afternoon at the State Teachers College, Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health physician, announced this morning. A meeting was scheduled for last evening at the rooms of the Nodaway County Health Association, to which several of the superintendents of schools in the county were present, but it was decided to postpone the organization to a time when all the teachers could be present, as the County Tubercular will a county-wide society and it will be necessary to secure the support of all the teachers in the county.

M. U. STUDENTS TO ARRIVE NEXT WEEK

VISIT WILL BE MADE TO COLLEGE AND OTHER PLACES.

IS SECOND OF THE KIND

Last Year Journalists Toured Southwestern Missouri and Northern Arkansas—Ten In Party.

Columbia, Mo., June 26.—A party of nine advanced students in Special Correspondence at the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri, accompanied by Professor R. S. Mann, will be in Maryville, Saturday, July 5. A visit will be made to the Northwest Missouri State Teachers' College and other points of interest, about which stories will be written for many of the leading newspapers of the Missouri River Valley.

The party leaves Columbia, Monday, June 30, stopping at Marshall, Higginsville and Warrensburg, before going to Kansas City and St. Joseph, and then on to Maryville.

Leaving Maryville, Omaha, Nebr., will be the next stop, from where the expedition will head for South Dakota, across South Dakota by automobile from the Iowa border, by way of the Badlands to the gold mines and national forests of the Black Hills, and back to Columbia by rail by way of Des Moines, Ia.

The present trip is the second of its kind ever attempted in the United States, the first one being made from here last summer when a group of students visited southwestern Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma. A feature of the trip this year is a thousand-mile tour by auto through the picturesque South Dakota country.

The students making the jaunt are: O. K. Armstrong, Columbia; Roscoe B. Ellard, Beloit, Wis.; Guy E. Yeldell, St. Louis; Ben K. H. Nee, Shanghai, China; Irvin Borders, Kansas City; W. J. Peterson, Lake Mills, Ia.; C. H. McMurtry, Carthage, Mo.; James T. Hague, Council Bluffs, Ia., and Charles Nutter, Falls City, Nebr.

M. H. S. Scholarship to Miss Doris Walker

Makes An Average of 93 in Examinations—Entitles Her To 4 Years' Tuition.

Miss Doris Walker, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walker of near Quitman, has received the scholarship offered by the Maryville High School, to the rural school eighth grade pupil who made the highest average. Miss Walker has accepted the scholarship which entitles her to four years of free tuition in the Maryville High School.

In the final examination she made an average of 93. This offer was held open to any pupil in Nodaway County who made the highest average. Miss Walker was a pupil of the Pleasant Valley rural school, district number seventy-one.

Leave Saturday for Colorado.

Mrs. Ida Adle and son, Eph Adle will leave Saturday for their home at Trinidad, Colo., after a ten day's visit with Maryville relatives. They accompanied the body of Mrs. Adle's step-mother, Mrs. Lydia Hamlin, to Maryville on June 16.

Mrs. Charles Bailey, Mrs. Hanks and Miss Audrey Nelson of Ravenwood were Maryville visitors yesterday.

3 ARE DROWNED AT PATTONSBURG

GO DOWN IN SWOLLEN BIG CREEK WATERS.

BODY OF ONE IS FOUND

Three Others In Party—Sister Miss Frankie Gromer Attending State Teachers College

Three Pattonsburg boys, swimming in the swollen waters of Big Creek that runs through Pattonsburg, were caught in whirl pools and drowned a little after 6 o'clock last evening. The boys who were victims of the flood waters are:

Mark Coffey
Robert McKinnis
Pete Morris.

Information concerning their drowning was received in Maryville this morning by Miss Frankie Gromer of Pattonsburg, who is attending the State Teachers College. Two of her brothers, Ray and Roy, twins, and a cousin, Fred Gromer, were along with the boys who were carried away by the swirling stream. The body of Mark Coffey was found last night but Robert McKinnis and Pete Morris were still missing when the information was sent to Maryville last night. They ranged in age between 18 and 35 years of age.

All the six young men were swimming in Big Creek. It had been their custom to swim from a railroad bridge down the river to a foot and wagon bridge about 300 yards below. The young men jumped off the railroad bridge into the river, which was high in its banks from the recent rains, and after they had swam four were caught in whirlpools and carried under. Roy Gromer noticed his brother Ray going down and under adverse circumstances brought him to the bank. It was impossible for the other two men to give aid to three that were carried under, as they had difficulty to gain the shore. The Pattonsburg young men were all experienced swimmers and had no fear of the water.

Ernest Ellis of Maryville, is well acquainted with all the young men who were in the swimming party, having gone to school and taken part in athletic activities with them. He said they were all large men and capable swimmers.

Session of Circuit Court Held Today

Ellis Bradley, Wilson Bradley and Admond Adkins were arraigned in circuit court this afternoon and waived formal arraignment and each boy entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of stealing chickens in the night time. Wilson Bradley gave bail for $1,000, and the two other boys had not given bail at press time this afternoon. These boys are charged with stealing chickens from Orville Hallsa of Elmo.

W. P. Jones on a charge of violation of prohibition law waived formal arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty. Bail was fixed at $1,000. Jones was unable to give bond today and was committed to the custody of the sheriff.

Murle Fuchs on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated waived formal arraignment and entered a plea of not guilty. Bail was fixed at $500 which was given.

The state was represented in these cases by E. E. Williams as assistant prosecuting attorney.

The Andrew-Nodaway drainage case exceptions will come up on July 7, it was said today. Court will adjourn probably tomorrow morning until that time.

The mandate of the supreme court in the case of Isaac J. Crossan, Jr. et. al. vs James A. Crossan, et. al., partition suit, was filed and made a part of the record in this case. The supreme court held that the land could not be partitioned until the death of the mother.

Rebecca Browning vs. Halbert Bailey, contract, (on appeal), mandate of the Kansas City Court of appeals ordered filed and made a part of the record of this court. Judgment against Halbert Bailey and H. C. Bailey, surety on appeal bond and execution ordered.

James Sheridan vs. Maryville E. L. & P. Co., Theodore Knox and Lee Knox, motion to retax, sustained as to items 1, 2 and 3, and all witnesses allowed for two days attendance.

Burlington Trains are Delayed Again Today

Heavy Rains This Morning Affect Track—Noon Train Arrives At 2:30 This Afternoon.

Barnard had another heavy rain this morning, it being reported that 3 inches fell. It was said that there was a heavy rain on south of Barnard. This rain affected the Burlington track again and the noon Burlington passenger from the south due here at 11:52, was running about two and a half hours behind schedule. It arrived in Maryville about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The track was put back into shape late yesterday afternoon and traffic was then resumed on the Burlington. All of the trains were behind schedule. The work train is at Rosendale today.

CLOSING PROGRAM D. V. B. S. FRIDAY

TO BE HELD 8 P. M., AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

A 20 MINUTE PAGEANT

Will Be Presented—Craft Work Done By Students To Be On Exhibition.

Friday evening the closing exhibition and program of Maryville's fourth Daily Vacation Bible School will be held in the High School auditorium at 8 o'clock. These closing programs have always been the windup of the Daily Vacation Bible School and have been very well attended. Parents of the boys and girls attending the D. V. B. S. and all interested in religious education for the young folks are especially invited.

The first thing on the program will be march in by the four departments. This will be done exactly as it is in the daily sessions. The Primary Department, under the leadership of Mrs. L. E. White, will conduct the opening worship period. This will be followed by a demonstration of the work in memorizing Bible verses as done by this department, and also of the songs learned. Mrs. Fred Wagoner will then lead the Kindergarten department in the songs and verses these little pre-school children have been learning. A flag, marching and song drill will then be presented by the Primary department.

The older departments will next appear, in a Bible and song memorizing work contest. Mrs. Leonard Bosch is in charge of the Intermediate department and Miss Margaret Louise Hosmer heads the Junior department, with the assistance of Mrs. Glenn Hornbuckle.

The dramatization work done by the Daily Vacation Bible School will be shown by the primary department, and by the Junior department.

"Into All the World" will be presented by the Junior department, under the direction of Miss Hosmer. Some from the Intermediate department will help. This is a pageant lasting some twenty minutes which will produce in dramatic form the lessons studied by the department during the term. The costumes were prepared by the members of the department themselves.

The last number to be given in the auditorium will be the regular daily closing exercise, and then the Junior and Intermediate departments will do some exhibition marching in the halls. The audience will be asked to move out there, as the stage is too small.

The craft work done will be on exhibition. Some very good hammocks have been made this year. The older girls are just completing two flower baskets for each of the five churches participating in the D. V. B. S. In addition there are a large number of jointed animals and other things, scrap books, etc.

Dr. Fryer Talks to S. C. Richeson's Class

Dr. C. P. Fryer, county health physician, gave an address this afternoon to the members of the class in School Economics course, taught by S. C. Richeson, former high school inspector of this district. Dr. Fryer had for his topic, "Disease Prevention."

Returns From Rochester.

L. S. Byers returned yesterday morning from Rochester, Minn., where he has been taking treatment for six weeks at the Mayo clinic. His condition is greatly improved.

PLEDGES ECONOMY IN STATE AFFAIRS

MOORE ASSAILS HYDE ADMINISTRATION.

TAXATION IS DISCUSSED

Candidate For Democratic Nomination For Governor Says Cost of Government Must Be Reduced.

Assailing the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill which, he said, has "placed barriers in the way so we cannot, to the best advantage, exchange surplus products," and pleading for a reduction in the cost of state government, George H. Moore, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Missouri, pledged a more economical administration of state affairs, in his address last night in the Circuit Court room.

Moore cited his record in the Revenue Collector's office where, he said, he "took the initiative in having some position abolished when it was found to be no longer necessary."

Referring to the Hyde administration in Missouri, Moore declared that the state officials have "neither attempted to practice economy in the operation of government, nor equalized the burdens of taxation."

Mr. Moore's address in part is as follows:

"In the selection of a Governor, the people are interested in the various candidates from two standpoints; first the personality of the candidate; and second, his political purposes and convictions.

"They desire first to know whether the candidate is a man of honesty and integrity and whether he possesses the requisite ability and knowledge of conditions. It matters little how much learning a man may have or how complete his realization of public needs may be, if he lacks common honesty and integrity. In our ordinary business transactions, we all know how difficult it is to deal with a rascal without having cause to regret it. Where public rights are concerned, the situation is more serious because of the greater interests involved. The great test that lies before the electorate of this country today is their ability to put honest men into public office.

"Being satisfied that a candidate possesses these primary personal qualifications, the people desire then to know something of the views of those who offer themselves for the high and important position of Governor, upon fundamental questions of public policy.

"The surplus products we take in exchange for our own is property, brought into being by the business and labor of such countries, which within itself builds up such countries, and their trade marks, and at the same time broadens and betters the foreign markets in which we must sell. It is a trade or exchange, world-wide in its benefits.

"The wheels of our foreign trade and commerce will continue to turn uninterrupted, notwithstanding the financial conditions of other countries and consequent effect reflected in the rates of exchange, if our tariffs are properly adjusted.

"But our present tariff laws have placed barriers in the way so we cannot to the best advantage exchange surplus products. We are denied, therefore, the full benefits and advantages of the very markets in which we must sell.

"If our products are not absorbed in these markets, they will not be sold at all. These laws operate to the injury of the general business interests of the country, including the farmer and should unquestionably be revised.

"The agricultural interests of the nation, which is the final analysis is the foundation upon which must rest all permanent progress and prosperity, are at a lower ebb than at any time within a quarter of a century.

"The price of wheat is less than the cost of production. The prices of almost all farm products and live stock are now less than they were prior to the World War, while the purchasing power of the farm dollar has fallen upon an average of 50 per cent. The farmer is not holding his own. He is not living from a surplus, but has for at least four years been drawing upon his capital. His buildings are out of repair and his land has depreciated in value. His taxes have been doubled and every governmental policy has worked to his disadvantage. His cost

SMITH DEMONSTRATION ROCKS CONVENTION TO PANDEMONIUM

DELEGATES GO WILD IN YELLING FOR 'AL.''

HAY IS GIVEN OVATION

BULLETIN.

The convention adjourned at 5:34 o'clock New York time this afternoon to re-convene at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The purpose of the adjournment was given so as to give the committee on resolutions an opportunity to meet tonight and to permit certain of the delegates to attend a reception.

It was necessary to poll the vote by states to decide whether the convention would adjourn until tomorrow morning or until 7:30 o'clock this evening. A roll call was demanded and a majority of the delegates favored adjournment until 10:30 tomorrow.

Madison Square Garden, June 26.—Into a convention drenched with oratory and jaded with demonstrations came an orator today of Jeffersonian dimensions.

Unknown outside of his own delegation, Charles M. Hay of St. Louis seconded the nomination of William Gibbs McAdoo in a speech of compelling brilliance which held the convention spellbound for a quarter of an hour.

It was old-fashioned oratory—"from the rock-bound coast of Maine to the sun-kissed shores of California"—but it went over big and when he concluded he was given a great ovation.

Hay departed from his set speech and orated far beyond the five minutes allowed for seconding speeches. He had a voice reminiscent of William J. Bryan in its clear compelling tone. David L. Rockwell and Breckenridge Long waved from the platform for a McAdoo demonstration as Hay finished.

The McAdoo states arose and applauded, waving flags and cheering. Missouri stood up and chanted, "We don't care when the East says "Boo," the South and West want McAdoo."

At 5 o'clock this afternoon chances for a recess seemed dim with the first rollcall not yet finished. The heat was oppressing and the delegates were becoming restless but determined evidently to finish the first roll-call. They had been in continued session for six hours.

To break the monotony of the roll call, Chairman Cummings formally announced a meeting of the full committee on platform for 8 o'clock tonight. The sub-committee's report will be ready at that time, Cummings announced.

Seconding speeches continued throughout the afternoon and several new names were placed in nomination. David F. Houston, former cabinet member was placed in nomination; Jonathan M. Davis, governor of Kansas, also was placed in nomination by W. A. Ayers of Wichita. Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana was placed in nomination by his law partner in Indianapolis, and Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland was also put on the list.

Then came another Smith demonstration when General Charles H. Cole of Boston came to the platform and seconded the nomination of the New York governor. New York broke loose again with yells, whistles and blaring bands. A deaf ear was turned to the pleadings of Senator Walsh, the permanent chairman.

When the noise had finally subsided, W. R. Taylor of Missouri got up and yelled, "Call the roll."

"The motion is altogether pertinent," yelled Walsh, his voice full of anger. "If we cannot conduct our business in this convention, the chair will entertain a motion to go somewhere else."

Senator Walsh then informed the convention that the resolutions committee would be unable to report before tomorrow.

New York, June 26.—New York told the Democratic convention and the wide, wide world today how much it wants Al Smith to be the nominee of this convention.

It was told in one of the most riotous demonstrations any convention ever witnessed, told in the shrieking of Coney Island clackers and the throat-splitting yells from thousands of his friends who held the convention at their mercy for an hour and twenty-five minutes of continuous and terrific din.

It was estimated 20,000 persons were crowded into the Madison Square Garden, the largest crowd in the history of the Garden. The convention was thrown into a turmoil of thousands of persons parading up and down the convention floor with but one message. It was "We want Al." How long this demonstration might have continued probably will never be known. It was stopped, however, after an hour and a half by a woman. She was Anna Case, the beautiful star of the Metropolitan Opera Co. Senator Thomas J. Walsh, permanent chairman of the convention, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, who placed Smith in nomination, tried unsuccessfully to halt the marching, milling, cheering crowd that went around and around the Garden to the tunes of "Sidewalks of New York," "Rosey O'Grady," and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Miss Case was finally appealed to. She came out with arms uplifted and she got in one minute what Walsh and Roosevelt had been unable to get at all. She got silence.

Missouri stayed out of the show. So did Kansas, Oklahoma and a number of western and southern states. A big brass band came tooting its way up the main aisle and stopped in front of the Missouri delegation and Mrs. A. C. Parsons, a McAdoo delegate from King City, Mo., arose to the emergency. She took rolls of wadded newspapers and stuffed them down the horns she could reach.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, the call of the roll was resumed and Delaware came forth to place the name of former Senator Willard Saulsbury of Delaware before the convention. Florida was called next and yielded to Missouri who sent to the platform Charles M. Hay of St. Louis to second the nomination of William G. McAdoo.

"The Democracy of Missouri seconds the nomination of a man who embodies in his personality the energy of the North, the culture of the South, the genius of the East and the daring of the West. The times call for William G. McAdoo. In his office in the White House, there will be no Wall street desks or Palm Beach private wires.

"Lawlessness runs riot. Individuals and groups evade and defy the law. Missouri wants another Andrew Jackson in the White House. Grave problems press for solution. The victims of injustice cry out for the righting of their wrongs. The world flounders in disorder. The world calls for a leader for this Republic who can think things through and get things done. We second the nomination of a man whose life's story is an arduous record of things done."

New York, June 26.—Frank H. Farris, chairman of the Missouri delegation, today predicted that his delegation would dissolve the unit rule if the Klan issue came up on the floor of the convention, so that each man might vote as his convictions dictated. The number opposed to naming the Klan would be twice those who demand that the hooded organization be mentioned by name, Farris said.

One Inch of Rainfall.

The rainfall up to noon today since early this morning measured one inch according to J. R. Brink, local weather observer.

D. S. Devore of Gillette, Wyo., who has been visiting his brother, Lee Devore and Mrs. Devore, has gone to Blockton, Ia., to visit James Devore and family. From there he will go to Louisville, Ky., and Marietta, Ohio, visiting at the latter place with his sister, Mrs. John Boston, and family, and other relatives. On the return trip he will stop in Maryville for a longer stay.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Unsettled tonight and Friday with probably thunderstorms; not much change in temperature.

"The cost of government in this state must be reduced. The present Republican administration in Missouri has neither attempted to practice economy in the operation of government; nor equalized the burdens of taxation. The first three years of the present Republican administration, as compared with the preceding four years of Democratic administration, reveal the fact that the annual appropriations out of the general revenue fund, which include the one-third appropriated to the school fund, have exceeded the annual appropriations of the Democratic administration from the same fund by an average of $4,266,872.81 per annum, or more than 50 per cent. Calculated in greater detail, the present Republican administration has spent $11,690.00 per day more, for every day of its first three years, than the preceding Democratic administration. What greater blessings have the people received for this great increase in the cost of state government?

"If elected Governor, I propose to make economy the practice, and in furtherance of that purpose, to see that no useless employe is retained, and that every effort is made to eliminate waste and extravagance in the public expenditures. In using the term "useless employe," I am not using a figure of speech. I mean literally each man who draws pay from the state must prove his value in service rendered.

"As evidence that this is not an idle promise, I point to my record of economical administration of the Revenue Collector's office. The records of the United States Treasury Department will establish that more than once I took the initiative in having some position abolished when it was found to be no longer absolutely necessary for the efficiency of the service."

Maryville Once Threatened by Secessionists Back In the '60s

Missouri in the Civil War was a battle ground for Union and Secessionist forces. In addition to much bushwhacking among the guerillas, there were fought the sizable and important battles of Lexington, Wilson's Creek and Westport. But Iowa, just across the border to the north, was untouched by the invader's heel.

On the contrary Iowa in the first year of the war essayed in a minor way the role of the invader herself, her soldiers making no less than three forays into Northwestern Missouri. In a recent number of the Palimpsest, published by the State Historical Society of Iowa, is recalled in detail the history of this little known phase of the war. Unimportant as it may be against the larger background of the great struggle, it nevertheless has a local interest.

Marched to Maryville.

News that Ft. Sumter had been fired upon reached Iowa April 12, 1861. Instantly patriotism was aroused. Before the month was out the organization of a home guard company at Clarinda was on foot. At other centers in the border counties guards were organized, and late in June a call to weld these troops into a regiment on July 3 was issued. These early volunteers became the 1st Regiment of the Western Division of the Iowa Volunteer Militia.

No sooner had this been done than the first war scare along the border threatened. A messenger dashed up Main street of Bedford, Ia., late the afternoon of July 5, and brought news that Maryville, Mo., was threatened with an attack by the Secessionists. The Union men of Nodaway County, Missouri, wanted help from their friends across the border in Iowa.

Some three hundred or more Iowans crossed the border and marched to Maryville, where the danger, if it really had impended, vanished with the arrival of the troops. Some arrests were made of Southern sympathizers who were released on swearing the oath of allegiance and cheering the American flag. Those refusing were sent to St. Louis. Patriotic speeches were made and some regular troops from St. Joseph marched in to aid the volunteers. The situation was deemed well in hand and the volunteers marched back to their homes, taking with them a Confederate flag they had found in Maryville, and which had been run up by Secessionists at the outbreak of the trouble.

More Trouble.

The excitement of this first invasion had scarcely died away when there came an urgent call from the beleaguered Union men at Gentry and Worth counties which adjoin Nodaway on the east. Some seven hundred men this time assembled hurriedly and pushed southward across the border. The Secessionists were reported gathered in considerable numbers near Fairview in Worth County, and threatening to exterminate the Union men under Col. Manlove Cranor and then make a raid into Iowa.

Lack of supplies caused only a part of the seven hundred to continue to Colonel Cranor's aid. The others returned home. But these reinforcements were enough, and seven these saw no action, for when they arrived at Fairview they found the Union and Secessionists commanders "arranging the terms of settlement whereby an armed clash would be avoided." Both sides agreed to return home and lay down their arms, and assist each other in enforcing the laws of Missouri against all offenders. The Secessionists pledged themselves to abstain from all acts of violence and lawlessness, to take an oath of allegiance to the United States ,to march under the Stars and Stripes, and to give three cheers for the Union. Approximately two hundred of the enemy complied with these terms, while the rest melted away unmolested. Patriotic speeches were made by men on both sides and oratory instead of bullets ended the threatened clash."

The Iowa troops were skeptical of the lasting effect of the truce, and kept together for a while in camp, finally disbanding and going home. But trouble came again in August when Colonel Cranor of Gentry County was confronted by Secessionists on a rampage. They threatened to annihilate the Union home guards and to destroy the property of Union men. Many families fled to Iowa, driving their livestock and carrying a few possessions in wagons.

Marched To St. Joseph.

Three companies from Taylor County, Iowa, joined Colonel Cranor near Albany in Gentry County, Missouri, and the combined forces pushed on toward the Secessionist camp. "The Confederates, who outnumbered the Union troops, advanced to the attask. A few shots were exchanged at long range, whereupon the Union men decided to fall back and await the coming of other Iowa volunteers then on the way." They retreated forty miles, and halted just south of the Iowa line, where they threw up breastworks and waited. Reinforcements arrived here, and with almost two thousand men, the Iowans set out in pursuit of the Missourians, who hastily retreated. Some shots were exchanged, and a few pickets captured, but contact between the main bodies of troops was not had.

The Union troops marched into St. Joseph September 15. The town "presented a desolate appearance. Whole blocks of business houses were closed and many of them had been broken into and plundered by the retreating Secessionists. The city had been ransacked for supplies and booty, and consequently the arrival of a strong Union force was greeted with great rejoicing by the loyal citizens.

"By this time the Confederates had retreated still farther south and were reported to be in the vicinity of Lexington, Mo. They were so far in advance that it was considered useless to try to overtake them. Many of the prisoners who had been captured on the march were released after taking an oath of allegiance to the United States, but others who were old offenders and outspoken in their denunciation of the Union were sent, under guard, to St. Louis.

"Three times in the summer of 1861 had come the call for help from below the state line, and three times the volunteers of Southwestern Iowa had responded. But that service was ended, for the year 1862 saw the creation of the Southern Border Brigade—one company for each county along the border—an organization which served as a border guard during the remainder of the war."

Carter Glass is another of those men who have reached a high place in public life with a printer's devildom for a starting place.

He first blackened his fingers with the sticky ink of the newspaper proof press when he was fourteen, working on the Lynchburg (Va.) Republican and on the Petersburg Post, both of which were owned by his father. His father, Major Robert H. Glass, had been a newspaperman for forty years.

Carter Glass was born January 4, 1858. His mother was Augusta Christian Glass. Lynchburg was his birthplace. Mr. Glass is of Scotch-Irish ancestry. His ancestors settled in Virginia before the Revolutionary War.

Glass was educated in private and in the public schools of Lynchburg and, as he often describes it, "in the newspaper business," which he found a stern, although thorough tutor. The honorary degree of LL.D. was given him by Lafayette College and Washington and Lee University.

Like every other newspaperman, who decides each Spring to get out of the business, Glass has been unable to quit the work he began when he was fourteen years old.

Glass was in Petersburg in 1877 when he decided that he had had quite enough of printing and publishing. He resolved to leave the newspaper profession forever. How unsuccessful he was is shown by the fact that today he owns a morning and an afternoon newspaper in Lynchburg.

"Broke," But Buys Paper.

He had gone to Lynchburg to become a clerk for the Atlantic Mississippi & Ohio Railroad. After three years of that he concluded that the newspaper calling was not so bad after all was said and done, and so he joined the editorial staff of the Lynchburg News.

In 1888, when Glass was thirty years old, the publisher wished to retire and offered to sell the paper to his "local editor." Being a true newspaperman, Mr. Glass had no more money than was enough to pay his current debts. However, a kinsman came to his aid and indorsed the obligations Glass assumed in taking over the newspaper. Five years later he acquired the Virginian and two years later the Evening Advance.

Mr. Glass served for twenty years as a clerk in the Lynchburg City Council, for which he got $300 a year. Meanwhile, excepting the influence he exerted through his newspapers, he was not a vital factor in politics.

His first active participation in it was in 1897, when he nominated J. Hoge Tyler for Governor before the State convention.

Mr. Glass was elected to the State Senate in 1899, his nomination and election being effected while he was ill in a New York hospital. There he served until 1903.

While a State Senator he was chosen, despite strong opposition to be a delegate to the Virginia Constitutional Convention.

Became Congressman in 1902.

In 1902 he was elected to Congress, where he served until 1918, when he was appointed Secretary of the Treasury. He resigned the Cabinet position in February, 1920, to accept an appointment to the United States Senate, succeeding the late Senator Martin. He was chosen again for that post in the November election in the following year. His term was to expire March 3, 1925.

One of the things about Glass's public life that endeared him to his supporters was his terseness. His speeches, few as they have been, always have been direct and brief. He exhibited in them the editorial writer's ability to summarize without loss of force.

Even while in the House and Senate he made few speeches. Most of his work was done in various committees of which he was a member. Indeed, he did not make a speech until after he was forty years old.

Sarcasm was one of the dominant characteristics of the speeches he did make. Many of his admirers have been wont to place him on the same rung with John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, whose biting repartee is historical in the Senate. Glass's sarcasm is heightened, too, by his amusing trait of drawing down one corner of his mouth when speaking.

RAINS HALT WORK ON THE HIGHWAYS

PAVING PROJECTS IN CITY ARE DELAYED.

SAY THAT IT RAINED

Says Highway Engineer Gotwals — Bridge and Grading Crews Idle on Highway No. 18.

Road work in the city and on the paving project on State Highway No. 18 ten miles south has been held intermittantly for the last two weeks. The grading crew and the bridge crew that have the contracts from the Atkinson Paving Co. for such work on the State Highway have not been able to do any work whatsoever this week. There are about twenty men on the grading crew and about fifteen on the bridge building crews and these men have been idle the greater share of the time since the continual rains during the month.

E. Warren Gotwals, engineer of the State Highway Commission, who is in charge of the state projects in this county, was in his office today going over numerous figures and figuring out payrolls. When asked for a story he said, "Tell the people it rained and we can't do any work out on the roads. How do you expect to get any news with all this rain holding up the road work? That's about all I can tell you."

The contractor for the concrete culverts on the state road project south of Maryville has had a form for a big culvert in readiness for pouring in the concrete for the last week, and every time he postpones putting in the mud a rains comes up and the work has to be put off until the next day, according to Mr. Gotwals this morning.

The paving projects on the city streets have also been at a standstill. The engineer for the Cook & O'Brien Construction Co., that has the contract for paving projects in Maryville this summer, has set the stakes at two different times for the fine grading on the alley in Block Three between Fourth and Fifth streets, running from Main street east to Market street, and yet no work can be accomplished by the paving crew because of the deluges.

Progress has also been held up on the two blocks of paving on Normal avenue between Dunn and Grand avenues.

Harmony

The following delivered hogs to the Farmers Produce Co., at Ravenwood the first of the week: J. E. Porter, Wilbur Cox, M. A. Brown, John Green and B. S. Cox.

E. E. Saunders and wife were in Maryville Thursday morning.

Miss Thelma Knecht attended the ice cream social given by the C. E. at the church Wednesday evening.

Perry Sapp is operating a bluegrass stripper in this neighborhood and reports the seed of extra good quality but not so abundant as some years.

Harold Anderson and family were visiting over Sunday at the home of John Green. He is in the employ of the Burlington R. R. Co., at Maryville and is a nephew of John.

Wilbur and Hazel Cox were in Maryville Friday and part of Saturday.

J. E. Porter and son, Vilas, were over near Wilcox last Wednesday and bought several fine Jersey cows. Some of the cows purchased were delivered by truck that afternoon and the remainder next day.

Gerald McKee, who was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parent, fell while climbing around in the barn and broke both bones in the left forearm just above the wrist. He is getting along nicely now.

Cecil Lawson, Lewis Moore, Alva Hunt, R. V. McKee and Arthur Hunt put in the foundation for the new Delco-Light plant engine last Wednesday afternoon. The new machine is here and will be installed as soon as possible.

Orville Fanning, accompanied by his father and Arthur Hunt, made a trip to Maryville last Wednesday for medical examination. The doctor reported him as making satisfactory progress from the injury received about six weeks ago.

R. V. McKee was making some repairs on the Orrsburg switchboard late Wednesday evening.

The funeral of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, living just east of the church, was held from the residence last Wednesday afternoon. The family has the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

T. M. Malson is working a band of bluegrass strippers in the bluegrass pastures of Iowa. He reports the quality fine.

Heavy rains occurring the first of the week have delayed farm work in this neighborhood considerably. Corn especially is badly in need of plowing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Casteel were visiting Sunday at the home of H. G. Null.

Quebec Is a Most Facinating City. Says Miss Betty Turner

Miss Betty Turner, executive secretary of the Nodaway County Red Cross chapter, who is on a tour of Canada and who will be in attendance at the National Conference of Social Workers at Toronto, Canada, from June 25 to July 2, has written of her stay in Quebec. The letter was dated Sunday. The letter in part follows:

"Those seeking something different should come to Quebec; it is the most fascinating city I have ever visited. The location is wonderfully beautiful. It is typical French, of course.

"Today has been a gala day (Corpus Christi day), hundreds of priests, nuns of various orders, men and children were in the procession, all walking, that passed through the streets of their diocese, a hundred or more little girls whom had taken their first communion added much to the procession wearing long white lace or net veils.

"This morning I attended services for a short time in the little church, Notre-Dame Des Victoires, in lower town, built in 1624. I moved on to a larger church and have never seen such a gorgeous service—really the variety and coloring of the vestments, and magnificence of some of them, of the many participating in the service, was beautiful.

"The music was in keeping with the colorful setting, about thirty choir boys with voices as sweet as seraphins, also men's choir. It was all indescribably lovely and inspiring. All streets traversed by the procession were gaily decorated with innumerable bright colored banners floating from every window. The streets are bordered with balsam trees about four feet in height and great arches over the streets made of balsam and surmounted with gold crosses. The air was redolent with the odor of balsam, so delicious and refreshing. The trees grow near here, about ten miles, and are bought from the farmers for 2 and 3 cents apiece.

"Yesterday I made the pilgrimage to the world famous shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, twenty miles east where over 150,000 pilgrims annually pay their devotions. With others I ascended the Holy stairs on my knees, which is the only way you can use these stairs. The shrine is in the village of Ste. Anne which nestles at the foot of Mt. Ste. Anne, 2,700 feet in height.

"This afternoon I drove over the city in a Caleche, a two wheel carriage painted bright green with white wheels and drawn by one horse, the driver, a red-headed Irishman, contributed to the color scheme, is perched high in front. These vehicles are quite common here and are very comfortable.

"Quebec might well be called a 'walled city,' it is the principal military station in Canada, and, next to Gibralter, the strongest fortified position in British territory. The gates of the walled fortification are made of heavy iron chains. I was shown through by a soldier guard this afternoon. I could go on and on about quaint old Quebec with her narrow precipitious stairs built against the cliff along the St. Lawrence, its history and people. Never again shall I travel on a schedule. I want to go farther east by boat, but must face west to reach Toronto on time."

Gary Says Motor Tax An Investment

Jefferson City, June 26—Theodore Gary, chairman of the state highway commission, in a statement yesterday said many motor car owners believed the benefits they received from the money spent for license plates must come during the next twelve months.

"That is a wrong conception," he pointed out. "Under the present road program for this state, more than 80 per cent of the license money paid on motor cars is an investment in hard surfaced roads, the benefit of which will be available for the remainder of the owner's residence in Missouri.

"January 1 there were in use 1,107 miles of hard surfaced roads built by the state. There were 1,144 miles graded ready for surfacing, or a total of 2,251 miles of improved roads of the various types to make the license fees a very profitable investment.

"Furthermore, the investment is cumulative, and the longer an owner pays an annual license fee, the greater will be the return he will receive each year in the saving of wear and tear on his car, the cost of gasoline and repairs, to say nothing of the comfort and convenience which will result."

Army Flyers Arrive at Calcutta, India

Calcutta, June 26.—The United States army around-the-world flyers arrived here this afternoon from Akyab.

Stock Trains Held Up by the Rising Streams

(St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal)

High waters resulting from swollen streams in northwest Missouri, badly crippled railroad service Tuesday night and yesterday. All passenger and freight schedules in and out of St. Joseph were badly deranged. Many stock trains from the west and north over the Burlington arrived at the stock yards several hours late.

Telephone service was interrupted as the result of Tuesday night's storms and this further hampered railroad service. Reports were that all of the rivers and small streams in Northwest Missouri were at the flood stage early yesterday. The Grand River was reported to be out of its banks and flooding much of the bottom lands between Darlington and Albany, temporarily causing suspension of traffic on the Sheridan branch of the Burlington. There were also reports that rail service on the Nodaway Valley, Tarkio and Creston branch lines had suspended on account of the high waters.

Stock Shipments.

Well-known stockmen of Nodaway County were on Tuesday's market with shipments of cattle and hogs. J. D. Mutz, O. M. Anderson, Guy R. Mutz, M. B. Sherlock, W. A. Sevaney, H. W. Farrar and Charles Epperson, were among the shippers.—St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal.

T. L. Robison of Pawnee City, Neb., who came Monday to attend the funeral of his brother, James C. Robison, returned home this morning.

It generally is the case the fellows who are around hunting arguments are single.

Worn Out Caring for Children and Housework—See how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps

Indianapolis, Indiana.—"I was in a very nervous and run-down condition while nursing my baby, and hearing some talk of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began taking it. From the second bottle I noticed a big improvement, and I am still taking it. I am not a bit nervous now, and feel like a different person. It is a great medicine for any one in a nervous, run-down condition and I would be glad to give any one advice about taking it. I think there is no better medicine and give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. Anna Smith, 541 W. Norwood Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

The important thing about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is that it does help women suffering from the ailments common to their sex.

If you are nervous and run-down and have pains in your lower parts and in your back, remember that the Vegetable Compound has relieved other women having the same symptoms. For sale by druggists everywhere.

SMITH FEARED BY REPUBLICAN PARTY

IS MAN OF DESTINY, FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT SAYS.

"WE CAN WIN WITH ALL"

Delegates Are Warned That Passions And Prejudices Must Be Cast Aside In Selecting Candidate

By Raymond I. Borst
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Madison Square Garden, New York, June 26—Portrayed as a man of destiny and one who is feared by the Republican party, Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, today was nominated for president at the Democratic national convention by Franklin D. Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the navy.

"With him we can win," Roosevelt told the delegates. "He is the most dangerous adversary that the Republican party ever had to fear, and you, in convention here, assembled, owe it to the nation to choose a candidate whose name spells victory."

Only once, and then indirectly, did Roosevelt refer to prohibition

"Governor Smith's is a record of law enforcement," Roosevelt said. "He believes that our constitution needs no explaining. His record of 20 years as public servant proves that he stands on the constitution from the first article to the seventh, and from the first amendment to the nineteenth inclusive."

Roosevelt warned the delegates that in selecting a candidate they should put aside any appeal to any passion or to any prejudice.

If Governor Smith were given the opportunity of wider service, Roosevelt predicted, he would make the "dry bones" battle in Washington.

He drew a vivid word picture for the delegates of the manner in which Governor Smith would be able to sweep the country because of his personality and ability to campaign.

Roosevelt's speech, in part, follows:

"At the last Democratic national convention, where I myself received one of the highest honors of the party, I had the privilege of working and speaking in behalf of the then governor of New York. Today, four years later, I carry the same mission, presenting the same governor, a man in whose behalf the best argument is the man himself.

"He is known throughout the nation as one of the real leaders, of whom millions of Americans, regardless of party, are proud. It has been suggested we would attempt to sweep him through to victory at this convention upon a wave of emotional appeal. Let me assure you at the outset that I shall make no such endeavor.

"In the very suggestion, however, there is tribute to the strength of this man.

"Our declaration of principles will unite every Democrat and convince the men and women voters of the United States that the time is at hand when the guidance of our government is to be entrusted to the hands of a Democratic president and a Democratic congress. The depths to which our federal government has fallen have been well portrayed to you by my old friends, the temporary and the permanent chairman of this convention. Cooperation in government is and will be one of overshadowing issues. Our candidate must be able to stand upon that. Make no mistake, the country will remember that and the country will remember, too, that on our governor for over twenty years in public office the white light of publicity has pitilessly beaten, and revealed only spotless integrity. Save for those whose enmity is a badge of honor, he has no enemies and his bitterest political adversaries have never charged him with the slightest deviation from the highest standard of political and ethical morality and the highest ideals of responsibility.

"And there is another phase. The country cries out in consternation and contempt over the continued dissensions between the legislative and executive branches of the government during the last four years.

"Therefore, we must give to the country a president experienced in administration and capable of restoring team work and good will between the executive and the congress. These qualifications are rare but I submit to you no experiment. This man's record is history; it has brought the highest commendation from the citizens of this state. His inauguration as president would mark the beginning of a new era of good feeling and practical accomplishment between the president and the congress of the United States.

"Here, in this state, through the leadership of this governor, governmental efficiency has so increased that the executives of other states have done us the honor of seeking to copy our model. He was a pioneer for the budget system. He was a pioneer in the reorganization and simplification of governmental departments.

"Give this man the opportunity of wider service, I will guarantee he will make the dry bones rattle in Washington, and that no longer will cynics and pessimists point the finger of scorn at our executive machinery.

"Under his guiding hand our state has recognized by its statutes so that its most priceless asset is the life and health of its women and children. He obtained laws prohibiting night work for women and the employment of small children. He secured state pensions for widowed mothers and state aid for the promotion of the health of rural communities. That is progressive! He has sponsored a practical workmen's compensation law, and has established labor boards to mediate disputes between employer and employe; he was responsible for the best factory laws ever passed in any state. That is progressive; Under his leadership, cooperative marketing, the extension of state highways, built for miles, not votes, the diversification of crops and the reforestation of denuded lands have marched hand in hand. That is progressive!

"But with all this, the efficiency of his administration has been such that he was able to point the way for the recent action of congress by reducing the income tax of this state by 25 per cent and the direct tax on land values throughout the state by another 25 per cent—a total of $17,000,000. That is progressive, too.

"The worst ill today is lack of confidence in government. The loss of faith arises chiefly from the acts, the low conception of duty and the complete lack of leadership of those now in power. We need as president one in whom the masses of the people, the great cross section of American public opinion, will regain their lost faith. We need as president not a man who will satisfy some one section or some one class but one whose voice will be heeded by the vast majority of those who make up the 110,000,000 of our population.

"Confidence and faith such as this has been won by the governor of this state. This faith in him will bring order out of chaos in the national capital, and will renew the respect and esteem in which our government should be held by the people whom it serves.

"His is a record of law enforcement. He believes that our constitution needs no explaining. His record of 20 years as public servant proves that he stands on the constitution from the first article to the seventh and from the first amendment to the nineteenth, inclusive.

"With him we can win. This governor of ours is the most dangerous adversary that the Republican party ever had to fear, and you, in convention here assembled, owe it to the nation to choose a candidate whose name spells victory.

"It was the illustrious Woodrow Wilson, my revered chief and yours who said 'the great voice of America does not come from the university. It comes in a murmur from the hills and the woods. From the farms, from the factories and the hills—rolling on and gaining volume until it comes to us from the homes of the common people.'

"Our governor not only represents the common people—but he embodies in his very being the aspirations of the average man, so that when he speaks, he speaks with the voice of America—he burns with the fire of a divine humanity—the fire which produced the greatest of leaders of the Democracies of the world.

"Picture the coming campaign—imagine ringing through the halls of this nation this man's denunciation of official corruption of un-American isolation, of sordid tariffs for the benefit of the few, attacking as only he can, the Republican onslaught of the reserve powers of the states.

"Imagine his thrust and genial sarcasm, burning out the truth where all men can see it; the eloquence of his simple, clean-cut oratory; the wave of understanding and the belief in him which will follow his steps.

"Picture to yourselves his campaign. You will see with me the consternation that his nomination will bring to the ranks of republicanism and privilege and the assurance of Democratic victory which his nomination will bring to the hosts of our party.

"I ask your judgment. I ask you to render it in the spirit of devotion to the principles of our party; in the faith that all citizens are equal before the law; in the conviction that the solid democracy of this nation will stand without fear and without hesitation, loyalty behind the nominee of this Democratic convention.

"If you will render your verdict in that sacred mood it can only be for the nomination of the man whom I present to you—Our own Alfred E. Smith."

Renewed Testimony

No one in Maryville who suffers headaches or distressing urinary ills, can afford to ignore this woman's twice told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Maryville resident can doubt.

Mrs. J. B. Kissinger, 904 East 4th St., Maryville, says: "I had been suffering with kidney trouble for some time. I had severe pains through my hips and was tired and weak. There were bearing-down pains in my back and sides and I felt exhausted at times and could not rest well at night. After using a few boxes of Doan's Pills I was greatly relieved, and my health began to pick up."

(Statement given October 2, 1912.)

On March 31, 1920, Mrs. Kissinger said: "I have not had a return of kidney trouble since using Doan's Pills. Doan's cured me and I wish to confirm my former statement."

WHEN the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA-75, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

NEEDS BRYAN AND PROVIDENCE

HARD TO GET TICKETS

Prominent Missourians Like Merideth of Poplar Bluff Unable to Get Admission Tickets.

(By W. C. Van Cleve).

New York City, June 23 (By Mail). —Convention activities opened with a bang this morning. All day yesterday and last night delegates and convention visitors were pouring into New York and state caucuses were generally called for today. The McAlpin and Waldorf-Astoria hotels are the political nerve centers. The McAdoo headquarters are at the Waldorf-Astoria and a number of state delegations are quartered there. Sixteen state delegations, including the Missourians, are at the McAlpin and its two thousand rooms are jammed with Democrats.

A warm time was expected when the Missouri delegation met to caucus on convention organization and procedure. St. Louis and Kansas City delegates, who were outnumbered and outvoted at Springfield, profess to feel greatly outraged by the resolution adopted there providing that the unit rule may be applied whenever the delegation so desires. A warm fight was scheduled on the unit rule and several other matters but a flare-up that was perhaps more genuine and more heartfelt occurred last night when a meeting was called to distribute, or at least discuss, admission tickets into the convention. This was a feature of the program not previously announced but it became interesting in a very few minutes. Hon. Edward Goltra has been national committeeman from Missouri for the past fourteen years and is still committeeman until the close of this convention. Mrs. Emily Newell Blair is the national committee woman and was re-elected at the Springfield convention. Mr. Goltra had called a meeting to talk about tickets, the one subject that is nearer to the heart of the convention delegates than any presidential candidate. When the meeting assembled, everybody was there but Goltra. It was understood that some seventy odd tickets had been alloted to Missouri and the delegates opined that they should have two each. Mrs. Blair undertook to explain that it was her understanding that there would be only 18 tickets to divide between 36 delegates and their friends. There was immediate wailing and gnashing of teeth and it wasn't long until Mrs. Blair was on the verge of weeping. Frank Farris, a delegate at large and one of the McAdoo floor leaders, was without a ticket to get his wife and his friends into the convention. Others were in the same predicament. It wasn't recorded whether Goltra was busy arranging for a parade up Fifth Avenue or had been impressed to go out and tell the bewildered party leaders who to nominate, but his absence was most impressive. After much talk and a general show of displeasure, the meeting adjourned until nine o'clock this morning and there was a general understanding that the missing committeeman would be among those present either with or without tickets. Some took the matter philosophically and in good humor, feeling that the matter would work out all right in some way and all felt sorry for Mrs. Blair, who seemed to have neither tickets nor promises with which to assuage the troubled waters.

At the meeting this morning the problem was partially solved by the distribution of two tickets each to the 36 delegates from Missouri. This leaves scores of prominent Missourians including Meredith of Poplar Bluff, candidate for attorney general, Representative Head of Marion County and wife, all without tickets and enquiring where there is a good picture show. But Missouri is not alone and the ticket proposition may be ironed out in the next twenty-four hours or it may approach the status of a scandal. All the other state delegations seem to be having the same trouble and the delegates are in bad humor. Madison Square Garden will not seat more than 13,000 people and the city of New York contains six or seven million people. There were accommodations for about four thousand more at San Francisco.

What aggravates the visitors is this. There are seats for 13,000 people. Tammany Hall it is understood has been given 2,500, Norman Mack, national committeeman from New York is understood to have 1,000. There are about 2,200 delegates and alternates and assuming that they get altogether 3,000, that accounts for 6,500. Now they are asking what became of the other 6,500? The fact that some enterprising gentlemen down town are offering tickets at prices from $100 to $200 doesn't make the visitors feel any better. The ticket proposition raises a row every four years and generally some way is found to take care of those who want to get in before the conventions are over. It is hoped this one will not prove an exception. In the matter of entertainment the citizens of the city generally have prepared an elaborate array of courtesies and, if the delegates take advantage of all the dinners, teas, etc., offered, they will be here until the fourth of July.

After twenty-four hours here on the ground, it may be said that, if McAdoo is nominated, he will have to have Bill Bryan and Providence both at his back. There is no question but he will go into the convention in the lead but he has more insidious influence working to bring about his defeat perhaps than any man who ever bucked the lines to victory. The newspapers of New York are against him and the whole New York organization is bringing every pressure to bear that is possible. The railroads, the big interests and every potential influence that can be commandered here is directed at the one objective, the defeat of McAdoo. If the country delegates stand up under the fire both direct and indirect, they will need almost superhuman strength of purpose.

The Smith following is fighting to defeat McAdoo and when they are done with one another, it is likely that the other thirty-two candidates near and remote will get their try out and perhaps one of them will be made the nominee. John W. Davis is the most talked of among the dark entries but the western delegates want a progressive and are questioning whether he will stand the acid test they intend to apply. Davis is a very high grade man and a man of outstanding ability. All admit that, but the big thought is can he get the votes in November? Unless he can, all the balance is useless. And that question is being applied to a number of others under consideration.

RALSTON IS NEEDED AT NATION'S HEAD

VAN NUYS TELLS DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

IS RUGGED AMERICAN

Madison Square Garden, New York June 26—(INS)—Indiana's favorite son, Senator Samuel M. Ralston, was placed in nomination by Frederick VanNuys, of Indianapolis, Ralston's law partner. VanNuys praised Senator Ralston as "a rugged American, intrepidly honest."

VanNuys said:

"On behalf of the united and loyal democracy of Indiana, I desire to place in nomination for the presidency a man who is both available and dependable in this hour of necessity.

"As governor of Indiana, he made an unparalleled record for economy and efficiency. He left over $3,000,000 in the state treasury and the state out of debt for the first time in 82 years.

"As United States senator he has shown himself possessed of rare poise and purpose. Had he been president of the United States during the long, trying months just passed, he would not have remained stoical and silent. He would not have broadcast silence to an outrated and expectant people, but would have led with a dynamic and not a static spirit of Americanism. We know this man from Indiana.

"We need him at the head of the nation's affairs today. He is a rugged American of the middle west, intrepidly honest and of seasoned fearlessness.

"On behalf of the nation which hangs expectantly upon the results of this convention, we present the name of Samuel M. Ralston of Indiana for the presidency."

Maryville Puts Up Stiff Battle But Loses Match

Local Golfers Play at Clarinda Yesterday in the Eighth Match of I. M. Golf Tourney.

The Maryville golf team competing with Clarinda yesterday in the I.-M. Golf Association tournament at Clarinda lost the eighth match of the tourney in a hard and clean fought way, putting up a game on the Clarinda links that surprised the Iowa golfers and made Maryville's opponents play their best games of the season.

Exceptionally low scores were made on both sides, Meyer, a Clarinda man, shooting a 74 and Sims of Maryville shooting an 83 for the eighteen holes.

The Clarinda course is about 1,000 yards shorter than the Maryville links, and the Maryville golfers being used to long drives, played a good game for the first time on the foreign course.

The total score, par and bogey holes made by each team follow:

| | Total strokes | Par | Bogey |
|---|---|---|---|
| Clarinda | 505 | 30 | 61 |
| Maryville | 536 | 14 | 46 |

Clarinda thus won all three points, making 31 less strokes, 16 more par holes and 15 more bogey holes.

The results of the three foursomes are:

| | In | Out | Total |
|---|---|---|---|
| Meyer, Clarinda | 37 | 37 | 74 |
| Patton, Clarinda | 45 | 47 | 92 |
| F. C. Miller, Maryville | 43 | 43 | 86 |
| C. Vogt, Maryville | 45 | 49 | 94 |
| Wenner, Clarinda | 46 | 44 | 90 |
| Wescott, Clarinda | 45 | 38 | 83 |
| Sims, Maryville | 42 | 41 | 83 |
| Dr. Dowell, Maryville | 53 | 46 | 99 |
| Eller, Clarinda | 40 | 41 | 81 |
| Halley, Clarinda | 40 | 45 | 85 |
| Costello, Maryville | 47 | 42 | 89 |
| Gillam, Maryville | 42 | 43 | 85 |

Forrest Gillam of the Maryville team said this morning that Clarinda now stands in the lead in the I.-M. Golf Association tournament.

The Maryville team will play the Red Oak, Ia., golfers there this coming Sunday.
